

Washington High School sophomore Thomas Inghram will represent Wash High this week at the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association (PMEA) District I Chorus at Thomas Jefferson High School on January 12 and 13th. Inghram has been singing since grade school and currently is a first bass. District 1 Chorus requires auditions for participation and students have an opportunity to be selected for Regional Chorus.

Two Wash High seniors are among the five Wash High students chosen for participation in the Washington County Chorus Festival which will be held January 26 and 27 at Penn West-California. Rose Strickler will sing first soprano and Omogbolahan Sanni will sing second bass. Other participants in the county chorus festival are junior first soprano Trinity Moss and sophomores Fernando Lozano, second bass, and Olivia Miller, first alto. Students from all 14 districts in the county participate in the festival.
